

Global Film Student Network

A network of film students from around the world engaging in industry-focused conversations in English.

TIMING

Summer(test)
Fall semester
Spring semester

WHY IS THIS IMPORTANT?

English is the lingua franca of the global film industry, used across international film festivals, co-productions, distribution, and creative collaboration. This network helps students build confidence and fluency communicating film and industry-related ideas in English with peers from around the world.

WHO IS THIS FOR?

Film academy/university students with Intermediate English proficiency and above

BENEFITS

- Build confidence and fluency discussing film and industry-related topics in English.
- Network with peers in film from around the world while broadening cultural perspectives.
- Connect with like-minded students who share a passion for storytelling and cinema.

HOW IT WORKS

- Students meet virtually within an internationally diverse group of peers matched by proficiency level.
- Small-group and one-on-one sessions are moderated/structured for participation and fluency-building.
- Industry-related discussion topics may include: treatment, scripts, distribution, production, finance.
- Guest speakers may include U.S. based film professionals.

An invitation for your students to participate in the pilot launch of Global Film Student Network
this summer (free).

